

Business Disputes and Commercial Litigation

Disputes in commerce are undeniably something you will wish to avoid, but, in the fast-paced, lucrative world of commerce today, they are probably inevitable. Under commercial law your rights are protected and making sure the outcome of a dispute is fair and just is the crux of commercial litigation.

The first decision to be made when facing a commercial dispute is whether a tough, litigious approach is appropriate or whether an alternative dispute resolution (ADR) method might be the best way forward. Either way, a solicitor experienced in commercial litigation will be able to guide you through the processes appropriate to your situation and offer both commercially focused and practical solutions.

WHY DO I NEED A SPECIALISED SOLICITOR?

Whether you are an independent trader, SME or a multi-national company, commercial law has a number of potential complexities; for example, a dispute may be spread across multiple jurisdictions or involve several parties. Whatever the size of your business, losses caused by disputes can be devastating, potentially threatening cash-flow and profitability. The key to mitigating negative impact is to get the right legal advice at the earliest opportunity. That's where Oratto comes in.

At Oratto we have a number of member solicitors who possess experience and a proven track record in some very niche areas of commercial litigation. We can put you in touch with a lawyer who will analyse both law and facts relating to your dispute and make an informed judgement as to how you could proceed most effectively.

We understand exactly how important it is to have the right representation when it comes to corporate and commercial matters. Only when you have the right support can you make the best decisions. Oratto can connect you instantly with a lawyer skilled in commercially litigious situations.

WHAT WE CAN OFFER YOU

Our member solicitors have years of success in the sphere of commercial law. They are used to assessing, advising and working towards a successful outcome for you. Experience is crucial in litigation.

However, it's not always necessary for a dispute to end up in front of a judge. It may well be possible to solve the issue without time-consuming and expensive recourse to court procedures. Oratto member lawyers will be able to offer advice on whether there is an alternative solution to pursue, such as mediation or arbitration.

Ultimately, by instructing an Oratto member lawyer you are ensuring that you will have the right support in place for any commercial litigation issue.
